Child level

What should I do if there are multiple heat flow data from different papers for the exact location?

Each sensing for the same location represents on child element. The "best" child heat flow value represents the parent level. This value consists of one or multiple (different papers) child elements. If data is repeated in several papers the primaery publication would represent the parent level heat flow value.

Unique solution ID: #1072
Author: n/a
Last update: 2023-04-07 12:35